HERITAGE PLASTICS ANNOUNCES WESTERN EXPANSION IN MILFORD, UTAH

Weatherford, TX (August 9, 2006) – Heritage Plastics, a leading manufacturer of electrical conduit, utility duct and fittings for power, cable, internet, telephone data and voice transmission lines, announced today that they are planning to expand their operations with the addition of a new division, Heritage Plastics – West, in Milford, Utah.

This will be Heritage Plastics first plant in the western United States and will serve seven Western states (Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington) and Hawaii.

Bill Raffaele, President of Heritage Plastics - Central said, “Heritage Plastics is the fastest growing conduit manufacturer in the country and today’s announcement demonstrates Heritage Plastics commitment to the expansion of capacity to support the rapid growth of our customer base, as well as anticipated growth in the region.”

The 50,000 square-foot facility, built on 13 acres in the city’s industrial park, will include six extrusion lines and two fabrication machines for electrical sweeps. Groundbreaking on the site will take place in August, with operation slated to begin in the first quarter of 2007.

The plant will initially bring approximately 25 new jobs to the area. Heritage Plastics plans to add two additional extrusion lines within the first year, increasing the need for more employees.

“I couldn’t be more pleased about Heritage Plastics decision to make this very significant investment and expand operations to Milford,” said Mayor of Milford City, Eugene Mayer. “Milford City is an ideal location for companies looking to expand their operations, while taking advantage of the cost benefits and available support.”

Milford was chosen over other locations due to its access to rail lines, ground transportation, existing infrastructure and overwhelming support from Milford City officials. Senator Orrin Hatch, Beaver County Economic Development Director Rob Adams and Economic Development Corporation of Utah Business Development Manager Brad Baird also provided special assistance to the company.

The new President of Heritage Plastics – West, Dennis Stuhlman, will manage sales and administration out of Weatherford, Texas.
